Price - Carrion House

c. 1860

The third floor of the Price-Carrion house has been removed and therefore disguises the original appearance of the mid 19th century Italianate form. The house does offer yet another example of the Italianate type house and it shows how popular the form came to be. The heirs of S. Price owned this house in 1877.

The Price-Carrion House c. 1860 is another ~~possessing~~ Italianate form that has been altered, with the removal of the third floor and its characteristic roofline. The present structure is a two story five bay by one room frame house with a single story kitchen wing to the west. The house is located down a long lane off Pond Neck Road and west of Earleville.

The structure rests on a partial fieldstone and brick foundation and is sheathed with weatherboard. The roof has a low pitch with abnormally high stuccoed brick stove stacks. The stacks and the new roof immediately point to a lowering of the structure.

The eastern (main) facade has the typical central entrance with symmetrical fenestration. The sash have been altered to a 6/1 arrangement on the first floor and 3/1 on the second. The front door has been replaced ~~with~~ and has a four panel with four lights above. The four light side-lights with panel below do remain.

The interior has retained a good deal of its mid 19th century woodwork, including a heavily turned newel with turned balusters, that support an oval handrail. Numerous four panel doors are found throughout the house. The mantels have been removed.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Carrion House has been altered so significantly that it has lost some of its architectural merit. The house form is somewhat recognizable but no where near as significant. The house does offer yet another example of the Italianate house type and shows how popular the form came to be. The house was owned by the Heirs of S. Price according to Lake, Griffing, and Stevenson (1877).
